Chas Hughes, who recently held a farm sale at the Homer livery barn, left Sunday for Waldron, Ark, on a land seeking trip. His family left Saturday for Whiting, Ia, for a several weeks' visit with relatives. Mr Hughes farmed for several years in Blyburg. George F Scott, well known in Homer and vicinity, died at his home, 1833 South Lemon street, Morningside, Ia, last week of pneumonia. He leaves a wife, two daughters and a son to mourn his loss. Chas Scott, a brother of this place, and other relatives attended the funeral which was held last Friday. Mr Scott was at one time a Homer resident and has a large circle of friends here who mourn his loss.

Walthill Times: Harry Martin went to Homer Saturday evening. Rev Cooney went to Jackson Tuesday evening. Mrs B B Bidworthy and Mrs Thos Ashford, jr, of Homer, were the guests of Mrs J V Gorham yesterday. Mr and Mrs Bates, Mr and Mrs Hoover, of Homer, were in Walthill Monday afternoon, visiting Mr and Mrs Henry Stoner. Jas W Fisher came in from Sioux City and spent several days here renewing old acquaintances and prosecuting his profession of insurance agent. Dr Ream returned the first of the week, after an absence of several months, and has resumed his practice in Walthill. During his absence he has been giving his attention to the study of surgery under surgeons of note in this part of the country. He spent most of the time, up to Christmas, with Dr Jepson of Sioux City, being in charge of the Jepson (St John's) hospital, where he assisted daily in clinics. Since then he has been at Rochester, Minn, attending clinics and studying the surgical methods of the Mayo brothers. Having already shown excellent skill as a practitioner in this line, Doc ought now to be equipped to make exploring expeditions inside a patient's anatomy and fix up striped gears and worn out carburetors with a skill that will make nature sit up and take notice. Dr Moody, who has been in charge of Dr Ream's practice during his absence, will remain in Walthill for the present, but is not determined as to a permanent future. During his stay here he has proved himself to be a careful, conscientious physician and has won a large confidence among our people.

They will be at home at Palsone, Wash. Miss Pearl spent her girlhood days in Tekamah; her father, W J Wilson, died here several years ago. Later the mother and children moved to Oregon for a few years. For the past few years Miss Pearl made her home in Sioux City, being a nurse at St Joseph's hospital. The Herald extends congratulations.

An electric light plant will be installed to furnish light for the various buildings. The Louis, formerly owned by J J Keefe, has been purchased by the association. It was used on the Sioux river last summer. The boat will be used for excursion purposes. Two high speed craft will be added. The following officers were elected for the coming year: T F Lacy, president; Riley Howard, vice president; J H Marshall, secretary and treasurer.
